NEXT LEVEL CONNECTION

Self-Horse-Human

AIM :

Linking effective, modern personal coaching methods with the wisdom of the herd.

This inaugural workshop will run over one weekend at the picturesque Wadi Farm in Nannup in south-west WA, with the support of a herd of largely wild born rescued horses.

You will acquire the tools and training to improve your understanding of why you do what you do, thus improving your relationship and connection with yourself and others, whether human or horse or both.

You will be guided to identify your own intrinsic subconscious values to make decision making in all aspects of your life more in alignment with the person you are here to be.

Create successful habits to help you achieve what you desire out of your life. Learn to identify the messages that horses send in all interactions with humans and other animals.

Journal, talk, and spend time with the herd to practice what you are learning.

CONTENT :

Have you ever noticed when training an animal that it seems YOU are the one being trained?

Have you noticed that the energy that you bring to a training session has a direct effect on the results achieved?

It's all about how we are showing up. And our pets of any species can give us direct insight and immediate feedback on our own energy, even if we are not aware of it at the time.

Do you think how we are showing up may also be impacting our relationships with our family, friends and/or work colleagues?

Would you like to show up more authentically with simple joy in your heart and an understanding of yourself in your relationships?

It's simple, but not easy. This may be a profound life changing step in the direction of improved understanding and relationships with self, horse and human.

Veronika Andersson, HNLP (Humanistic Neuro-Linguistic Psychology) Practitioner...

Veronika is an HNLP Practitioner and Coach for the Deeper Self. This type of coaching is like finally receiving the owner's manual to the mind and can provide great insight into what has been holding you back in results that you have been trying to achieve in your relationships, career, and life in general.

Veronika noticed close synergies with the philosophy of her type of coaching and the profound behavioural/herd based wisdom that Katherine expounds in her Equine Behaviour Recognition workshops.

From there, a beautiful partnership was formed.
